

NORTH METRO TRAFFIC SCHOOL ANNOUNCES ITS GRAND OPENING

Atlanta's Newest Driving School Holds Inaugural Class

ATLANTA, GA - September 2, 2008 - North Metro Traffic School, a State Certified Defensive Driving, DUI and Driver's Education School, announced today the opening of its first location in Georgia. The new school is located in metro Atlanta, just off Holcomb Bridge Road in an professional office park.

Built to meet the growing needs of the community, North Metro Traffic School offers weekly classes in a new, spacious facility designed around education and student comfort.

"Our goal is not only to improve the safety on Georgia's highways but also create one of the finest driving schools in the area," said Sally Updyke, Director, North Metro Traffic School. "By hiring and consulting with some of the top instructors in the State, we feel we have created flexible and informative programs which will set us apart from everyone else."

North Metro Traffic School objective is to present the required curriculum in an innovative and entertaining manner that will engage students while providing valuable information which can be used in everyday life.

"The feedback and turnout we have received so far has exceeded our expectations and we are very excited for the future," said Sally Updyke. "We are already looking into additional programs and services which will further meet the needs of our community."

The school provides weekday and weekend classes for clients who have been cited for a variety of traffic violations, many drug and DUI offenses or anyone interested in improving their driving skills. All of North Metro Traffic Schools programs are licensed by the Department of Driver Services and regulated by the State of Georgia.
