

ATLANTA DEFENSIVE DRIVING AND DUI SCHOOL COMPLETES EXPANSION TO MEET GROWING DEMAND

Georgia's Premier Driving School, North Metro Traffic School, Adds Additional Programs to its 2009 Schedule

ATLANTA, GA - February 8, 2010 - North Metro Traffic School, a state certified defensive driving, DUI and driver's education school, announced today that it has completed a large expansion project at its Norcross, Georgia, location and this month, will begin offering a variety of new driving and alcohol counseling programs.

Currently teaching DUI risk reduction, defensive driving and 30-hour online Joshua's Law classes, the Georgia driving school will now incorporate on-site driver's education, DUI victim impact panels, drug and alcohol counseling along with court ordered evaluations to its list of state approved programs.

"We are committed to becoming Metro Atlanta's first choice when it comes to Joshua's Law training, DUI and victim impact programs, and defensive driving classes," said Sally Updyke, Director of North Metro Traffic School. "Whether it is learning to drive or clearing up a ticket, we can help and with all of our programs under one roof, we have truly become a one-stop-shop for Atlanta's traffic and driving school needs."

The project included the construction of a new state-of-the-art classroom that features a 105 inch drop down projection screen and stereo surround sound to enhance the overall experience of the courses. The redesign also included the purchase of all new furniture, construction of a large reception area to improve the registration process and a break-room for students to use as well.

To compensate for the additional number of students the school is accommodating every month, North Metro Traffic School has added additional food and drink vending services which now includes free coffee, tea and hot chocolate during every class.

"The modern multimedia technology we have incorporated provides a great tool for our instructors and will continue to help us differentiate our program from our competitors," said Sally. "By offering a more flexible schedule, using newer technology and adding these new programs, we feel confident that this year will be even busier than the last."

The renovation more than doubled the size of the business and will make North Metro Traffic School one of the few driving schools in the state with the ability to offer such large numbers of DUI, defensive driving and Joshua's Law classes every month at one location.
